SKU: GD1713

£1,585.00

A striking pair of unusual large scale reclaimed cast iron garden ornaments, offering a bold and distinctive focal point for design-led gardens, courtyards, planting schemes and landscape projects. Originally used as agricultural mill elements, these heavy circular discs have been repurposed as sculptural garden features with strong architectural character and practical decorative potential.

Used upright as photographed, each cast iron disc creates a substantial circular garden element with an unusual symmetrical form. Their scale, weight and weathered surface give them real presence, making them well suited to contemporary gardens, rustic planting schemes, architectural salvage settings and outdoor spaces that call for something distinctive and unexpected.

The pair could be used simply as freestanding garden ornaments or statement pieces, flanking an entrance, incorporated into planting as circular sculptural forms, or adapted for use as planters or cascading water feature elements. Their industrial agricultural origins give them an authentic reclaimed quality, while their clean circular profile makes them highly versatile within both traditional and modern garden design.

Heavy, solid and full of character, these matching cast iron pieces offer numerous possibilities for creative reuse. They could frame planting, stand as sculptural focal points, form part of a water installation, or be incorporated into a bespoke landscape scheme. Their unusual form invites imaginative use and would appeal to gardeners, designers and architects looking for reclaimed elements with genuine impact.

The pair have a naturally aged reclaimed cast iron finish with natural surface weathering and patination from previous use and outdoor exposure. Their agricultural mill heritage adds interest and provenance, while their substantial construction ensures they remain impressive and durable garden features.

Approximate size: each nearly 4ft high and over 2ft diameter. Heavy solid cast iron. Supplied as a matching pair.
