A PAIR OF 1940S BRITISH MILITARY MOD OAK DESK TABLES – ROYAL CREST

SKU: GD1258

Embrace a touch of history with this pair of 1940s British military MOD oak desks, stamped with the royal crest of Elizabeth II (ER). These desks are in good study condition, combining robustness with functional design.

Each desk features a leatherette-type inlay on the top, showcasing a nicely aged patina that adds a little character and charm. The solid oak frame is complemented by removable tapered legs which cleverly store underneath the table, allowing easy storage, inspired by traditional campaign-style furniture designed for military transport.

These desks have been cleaned and serviced, making them ready for immediate use. While there are some watermarks and natural patina on the wood, both desks remain in sound condition, reflecting their durability and history.

Sold as a pair, these desks can be used together or apart, providing a versatile work area for your needs (they can also be sold individually if required).

Overall size = H76cm x W84.5cm x D54cm

Kneehole height = 64cm / 25.25 inches

Perfect for collectors and design enthusiasts alike, this pair of 1940s British military MOD oak desks combines historical significance with practical functionality. Enhance your workspace with these unique pieces that tell a story and stand the test of time.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Age	Circa 1940s
Dimensions	H76cm x W84.5cm x D54cm / H30" x W33.25" x D21.25"
Material	Oak
Origin	British

GALLERY IMAGES