A LARGE PAIR OF MID-CENTURY MODERNIST CONCRETE PLANTERS IN THE MANNER OF WILLY GUHL

SKU: GD1670

£1,295.00

A superb pair of mid-century modernist concrete planters, reminiscent of the iconic style of Willy Guhl.  A wonderful pair with a perfect balance of texture and wear.  Often very difficult to find a pair which have weathered in a similar pattern and have that matching look and feel – these certainly have that.

Crafted with a rough cast finish, each planter has a rich texture that has an inviting aesthetic. The warm off-white colour, enhanced by a beautifully weathered patina, features natural moss accents along the top edges, adding to their rustic charm. This perfect blend of aesthetics makes them ideal decorator pieces for someone wanting to add a modernist feel to their outdoor setting.

Measuring 30 inches across, these large planters are perfect for flanking a doorway or serving as striking focal points on a patio or in a garden. Each planter is in good sound condition, featuring a single drainage hole at the base, as illustrated in the photos.

Infuse your space with the timeless appeal of mid-century modern design with an edge of soft brutalist aesthetic.  Perfect for designers looking to create an inviting atmosphere with natural tone and texture.

Note: A larger one also available, see other listing.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

| | |
|---|---|
| Age | 1960s |
| Dimensions | H30cm x W77cm / H12" x W30.5" |
| Origin | English |
| Material | Concrete |

GALLERY IMAGES