A PRIMITIVE PAIR OF STONE TROUGH GARDEN PLANTERS WITH WEATHERED PATINA

SKU: GD1573

£1,285.00

These antique sandstone rectangular trough garden planters are truly stunning. Their weathered patina adds character and charm, making them perfect focal points in any garden. The natural shapes of the stone evoke a sense of timelessness and connection to nature, enhancing the overall aesthetic of your outdoor space. The rustic appeal of these planters can beautifully complement various plants, from vibrant flowers to lush greenery, creating a serene and inviting atmosphere.

Crafted from solid sandstone, these would have originally been carved as drinking troughs, dating back to the early part of the 19th century, The irregular, organic shape offers a beautifully weathered appearance, with an original patina of moss and lichen that gives the piece an established, timeworn look.

Both are in excellent sound condition, ready to grace your garden or home with a distinctive charm. Use outdoors to add texture and age to a new garden design, or display under a loggia as a unique decorative accent piece. Their versatile nature makes them an ideal container for rockery plants and pond areas too.

For designer seeking to infuse their space with layered history and natural character . Embrace the beauty of time-worn materials for that true wabi sabi authenticity.

A pair but both of unique scale and character. The thick stone base is carved with and inside planting depth of approximately 20cm / 8 inch

Sizes

H27cm x L75cm x W50cm / H10.5" x L29.5" x W20"

H27cm x 60cm x W46cm / H10.5" x L24" x W18"

Beautiful decorative 160-year-old pieces.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Age	Early 19th Century
Material	Sandstone
Origin	English
Dimensions	See description for sizes

GALLERY IMAGES