ANTIQUE YORKSTONE MILL WHEEL OR GRINDING STONE WITH WEATHERED PATINA AND LICHEN

SKU: GD1589

A magnificent antique mill wheel or grinding stone crafted from durable Yorkstone, this piece dates back over 100 years and bears the weathered marks of its storied past.

Measuring 20.5 inches in diameter, the stone has a circular shaft hole in its centre. Years of exposure to the elements have imbued the stone with a stunning, time-worn patina, featuring a captivating blend of green, yellow, and white hues from the growth of lichen. This weathered and lichen-accented surface makes the antique wheel stone a true work of natural art. The interplay of colours and textures creates an irresistible visual interest, making this piece a striking decorative accent for any garden, patio, or outdoor living area.

This antique stone would make a captivating focal point or serve as a unique pedestal table top. Pair it with lush greenery, weathered wood, or other rustic decor elements to create a harmonious, one-of-a-kind aesthetic that celebrates the enduring appeal of the past.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

| | |
|---|---|
| Age | Circa 1890 |
| Dimensions | W52cm Diameter x 9cm Thickness (20.5" x 3.5") |
| Material | Sandstone |
| Origin | English |

GALLERY IMAGES