PETITE PRIMITIVE CARVED STONE ANTIQUE WABI SABI ORGANIC SANDSTONE PLANTER POT

SKU: GD1598

£495.00

Embrace the beauty of imperfection with this small, but perfectly formed, carved stone planter. An early primitive piece, likely dating to early 1800s, hand carved from natural stone, created by the skilled hands of generations past, this piece showcases the organic textures and natural patina that develops over a time

The unusual square tapered design, possibly a primitive mortar, provides ample room to display your favourite plants, succulents, or fresh herbs. Whether placed indoors or out, this planter adds a zen-inspired, nature-infused accent to any space. Ideal for use as a Bonsai Pot.

There are no drainage holes, so it also holds water and could be used as a small bird bath.

The primitive shape and irregular surface creates a striking, sculptural silhouette that complements both modern and traditional decor. The natural stone has a beautiful rustic organic feel, perfect for those wanting to introduce that wabi-sabi touch to a room or garden, adding an earthy charm.

Durable enough for outdoor use, this planter could also be used indoors to bring a touch of the outdoors in. Its self-contained design makes it easy to move and position as needed. Use it to anchor a vignette, flank a fireplace, or dot along a windowsill.

Showcase the quiet elegance of nature with this captivating little stone planter.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Age	Early 19th Century
Material	Sandstone
Dimensions	H18cm x W38cm x D40cm / H7" x W15" x D16"
Origin	English

GALLERY IMAGES